NATION-WIDE RAID ON RADICALS GREATEST IN HISTORY; HALF HELD ON "PERFECT CASES" FOR DEPORTING

Scores of Parlor Bolsheviks Among Those Arrested; Machinery Is Set in Motion in 33 Cities at One Time Last Night; Operatives Continue to Work.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 3.—Arrests in the nation-wide radical raid last night and today had exceeded 4,500 at noon, it was estimated at the department of justice. More than half of this number probably will be held for deportation, officials said.

Scores of parlor bolsheviks were among those arrested in the raids, officials said. These, it was admitted, may have to be dealt with under state laws as they are citizens.

Assistant Attorney General Garvan, in charge of the raids, said more than 2,000 persons were held on "perfect cases" and that the raid promised to be not only the greatest in scope but also the greatest in results of any in history.

In every city where the raiding machinery was set in motion, he said, success attended the efforts. Four thousand warrants were issued but the arrests exceeded that number.

Besides the 2,000 "perfect cases," Mr. Garvan said, federal agents obtained sufficient evidence to justify the arrests of the others.

A new feature of the present raid was the drive at the sources of propaganda. The communist party sent against which the raids were directed was said to have gained the strength in propaganda through its newspapers so much as through literature, tons of which were taken in the 33 cities where raids were conducted.

In addition to the newspapers the communist party was actively engaged in soliciting support for its cause through alien agitators. Scores of these agents, it was reported, were directed to leave the country through the department of justice drive as follows:

New York City, 34; Detroit, 500; Chicago, 154; Jersey City, 410; Cleveland, 329; Philadelphia, 200; Rockford, Ill., 183; Nashville, 161; Buffalo, 136; Milwaukee, 98; Cleveland, 75; Manchester, 75; Boston, 57; Springfield, Mass., 65; Kansas City, Kas., 45; Worcester, Mass., 42; Lynn, Mass., 42; Pittsburg, 40; Paterson, 35; Lowell, N. H., 40; Baltimore, 35; Louisville, 30; St. Louis, 18; Oakland, Calif., 15; Chicago, 15; Portland, Ore., 20; Louisville, 20; Holyoke, 20; Minneapolis, 17; Youngstown, 16; Bridgeport, 16; St. Paul, 10; Denver, 9; Omaha, 3; Lawrence, 3; Toledo, 3; Waterbury, 7; Racine, Wis., 5; East St. Louis, 6. Total, 4,377.

It was reported slightly or in groups of fewer than five probably will aggregate an additional 200. In some instances federal officers have not or would not make reports on the number of persons arrested.

54 Arrested in Milwaukee
Milwaukee, Jan. 3.—Fifty-four alleged radicals had been arrested in Milwaukee up to 3 o'clock this morning, it was expected, and would be rounded up during the day. As Milwaukee's part in the nationwide drive, the department of justice is today said to number 23.

Happy New Year

(BY DELL MILITMORE.)

Happy New Year! Kindly words that heve a magic grace. That somehow brings th' sunshine to th' grayest, grimmest face. An' when I hear it spoken—well, I always seem to see Th' blessing's that th' past has brought an' so it seems to me Thet New Year's is a glorified most hopeful day o' days— A wealth o' human kindness lives in thet familiar phrase.

Again Life's Wheel o' Fortune we shall give another try An' though we know we're gettin' old—this is no time to sigh For if th' past year brought us grief or added toil or care Why th' may be th' turnin' point an' so with hopeful air Let's bravely face th' comin' year for Heaven only knows Th' pleasant things that may occurr t' help us bear our woes.

Now this year is peculiar for we've hed on ev'ry hand An' evidence o' vague unrest so spread throughout th' land Thet conscience bids us jest lay low, abandon idle talk But when we find jest wh' blame then make 'em walk th' chalk. No wisser step we ever took th'n sendin' 'em on our shores Th' anarchists an' Bolsheviks who were within our doors.

Not very much above them, an' sometimes I think they're worse, Are native born Americans whose power is a curse. Upon th' nation; men who trade their souls for gain; Tho, followin' ambition's urge, make oaths of office vain; An' profiteers who rob th' poor—then on th' other hand Strike leaders who t' gain their ends spread sorrow through th' land.

Then we've another duty that I fear we may neglect. We each an' all approve of it but then in that respect Such are th' duties always that are easy to forget. Each thinks the other'll see t' that an' so I'm afraid we'll let Th' soldiers, sailors an' marines who hev returned from war Go shittin' round fr'm place t' place at tasks they nigh abhor.

New durb! war th' welfare folks talked loudly of morale If we could use their system, mabe somehow jest borrow Some of the earnest workers who've returned from war. 'Twould be a grand good blessin' for there's nothin' else I guess Quite needed like a guidin' hand t' lead them to success.

They're lost without a leader an' they can't tell what t' do. Uncertainty is worse for them th'n hardships they've been through. To help each one to better work, more fitting an' more pay Should be our earnest duty an' a joyous one to boot. Let's wish them Happy New Year! health, good work an' pluck A hope that their Happy New Year will bring them all good luck.

Sold $2,850,000 Worth of Bonds Through Newspaper Advertising and saved $70,228.17 Thereby.

Another record has been made by the newspapers of Wisconsin and it really stands out as one of the most important demonstrations of the efficiency of the newspaper in moving a commodity.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company desired recently to place in the hands of a large number of purchasers an issue of five-year seven per cent notes amounting to $3,600,000. Quoting in part from Frank Putnam, Director of Publicity: These bonds were sold directly across the Company's counters through home newspaper advertising. Newspaper advertising was supplemented by circulars mailed to investors working during the early part of the campaign; also by circulars mailed to investors already interested in the Company and by an initial sale of $400,000 of the notes negotiated by the Management to the Milwaukee banks.

These sales methods greatly facilitated the newspaper campaign and $750,000 of the issue can be credited to this supplementary method, leaving $2,850,000 attributable to newspaper advertising.

The actual cost of selling the entire issue was as follows:

Newspaper advertising $51,525.62
Office expenses, sales commissions, etc. 22,246.11

Making a total of $73,771.73
With a per cent cost of 0.2049.

There were 5,458 buyers, of which 160 are residents of other states, and of the total, 1,394 women were purchasers.

The saving to the Company of $70,228.17 was effected through the difference between the actual cost of newspaper advertising, etc., as compared with the syndicate offer to dispose of the issue.

The notes were advertised in fifty-six Wisconsin cities and sold in 232 cities and towns of Wisconsin and in eighty-one cities of other states.

"The sale was made in the face of considerable opposition, but even under the most adverse conditions it was carried on with remarkable success, the advertising has fortified the Company and its service in public appreciation and good will; these are most significant facts for other public utility operators."

"The Company announced throughout the sale that it would maintain permanently a securities office to which note buyers wishing to realize on their investment might bring or send their notes for resale. At this time only a tiny fraction of one per cent of the notes have been returned for resale. The Company has a considerable volume of orders for securities that cannot be filled."

The papers of the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper League were used almost to a unit in this campaign and the generous proving this vast quantity of securities is refreshing Putnam, Director of Publicity, in moving this vast quantity of securities, is refreshing Putnam, Director of Publicity, in moving this vast quantity of securities, is refreshing Putnam, Director of Publicity, in moving this vast quantity of securities, is refreshing Putnam, Director of Publicity, in moving this vast quantity of securities, is refreshing Put

EX-SERVICE MEN TO MEET TUESDAY TO BOOST JANESVILLE

Plans for a rousing meeting of the Richard Ellis Janesville Post of the American Legion to be held at the council chambers in the City Hall next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock are being made by the post officers. The desire is to start the new year with a large attendance, to which an cordial invitation is extended to all ex-service men to be on hand. Being the first regular meeting of the year, it is expected that a program of activities for 1920 will be mapped. It is hoped that some steps will be taken to cooperate with the city officials to fittingly celebrate at least five important historical days of the year: Memorial day, May 30; Flag day, June 14; Peace day, June 28; Independence day, July 4; and Bastille day, July 14. Indications are that some consideration will be given to the meeting to pledge the organization to a campaign of civic activities, by stanchly devoting its influence to supporting the cause of commerce and other bodies. Another important matter that undoubtedly will come up is consideration of action taken during the week by labor unions throughout various parts of the country in harassing union men from accepting their duties. It is hoped that the action taken by some posts in settling labor troubles.

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN MONDAY MORNING

Janesville city schools will resume sessions Monday morning, after the two weeks' holiday vacation. All school rooms have been subjected to a thorough cleaning during the two weeks. Each room and each desk has gone through a system of cleaning seldom experienced while school is in session.

Indications point that all members of the teaching force will be in their rooms Monday morning. This is unusual at the expiration of many holidays and vacations several teachers are usually either unable to return because of illness or delayed. No reports have been received from teachers stating that they will not return according to H. H. Faust city school superintendent.

Investigation made by school authorities discloses the fact that their is little or no illness among students.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] La Crosse, Jan. 3.—Marriages performed outside of the state of Wisconsin, uniting persons who return to this state to live after the ceremony has been performed are void according to an opinion expressed today by Judge S. C. Hight of the circuit court in considering an application for a divorce here made by a woman who had been married at Winona, Minn., 12 years ago. The ruling is in accord with that of Judge Halsor, Milwaukee, who ruled recently regarding marriages at Waukegan.

G. M. CORPORATION COMPLETES PURCHASE

Transfer of the property at 211 East Milwaukee street now occupied by the Bower City Machine company to the General Motors corporation by Winfred W. Murphy, Chicago, was made today according to papers filed in the office of the register of deeds here. Mr. Murphy bought the property early in November from Ford, Boos and Schooff. At that time it was announced that it was to be sold to the Motors people. The price paid is not made public, although it is understood to run into five figures. The Bower City company holds a lease upon the property, which is now covered by a one story brick structure, until April, 1921. At the time the first transaction was completed, it was announced that the Samson Tractor company would make no use of the new acquisition until after this lease runs out, the building and extension on the corner of South Third and East Milwaukee streets being used for the department needs of the engineering department for the present.

A QUESTION? Do you carry enough insurance on your property? Remember, property values have increased very largely in the past year. Be sure you are amply protected. Our organization will furnish the highest type of insurance service. C. P. BEERS, Main floor, Hayes Block.

JEFFERS' HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Continued from Page 1.) Chief Murphy tried for more than an hour to open the hydrants at St. Lawrence and Jackson, and St. Lawrence and East street, failed because the hydrants were frozen. The fire was on one wrench could not unscrew the cap on either hydrant he said. The second lead was finally laid by water directed with the hydrant at Jackson and Second streets. Both streams were then played on the fire at a pressure of from 100 to 120 pounds, or 40 pounds above normal pressure.

Four gallons of water. Working ahead of the blaze, Chief Murphy cut the door in the hallway on the second story. A great hole was chopped just above the partition at the head of the blaze and hundreds of gallons of water shot there finally put the fire under control.

In speaking of the frozen hydrants, Chief Murphy said that he thought several located in the business district which could possibly not be opened in case of fire for 100 to 120 pounds. He declared he found two frozen in the first ward three weeks ago.

Hydrants Frozen at Top. Sub H. L. Griffin of the water department stated today that all hydrants in the city were inspected early in November, this year, and that the hydrants should be frozen unless it could be that they had been opened during the winter. He said that the hydrants of the street repairing force.

He declared the water in the base of the hydrants was not frozen, that it was only nearly the top of each where there was any ice.

"I made an investigation of the two hydrants mentioned in this morning and thawed them out by merely pouring a dipper of hot water on each," he stated.

Former Beloit Teacher To Work for Agency

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Winona, Minn., Jan. 3.—Joseph V. Voorhees, for more than 10 years connected with Winona's public schools, last night tendered his resignation. Mr. Voorhees leaves to work for a teachers' agency in Minneapolis. He came to Winona in 1909, prior to which he taught in high schools at Beloit, Wis., and Coldwater and Manistee, Mich.

Rock River Valley to have a new Large and Beautiful Amusement Park.

There is probably no more beautiful and more naturally adapted park location along the Rock River Valley than the 120 acres of the Geo. J. Woodward farm situated on the west bank of the river north of Janesville, and close to that city. The property has a mile or more of lovely river frontage, and combines highly diversified features of hill and dale, ravine and forest with the more common park-like beauties of the ordinary river side location.

The rugged and natural beauties of proportion of this land make the property one adapted by nature to become one of the most beautiful as well as one of the largest of the parks and pleasure resorts of the Rock River Valley. This property has just been purchased by B. J. Jones of Janesville, who has his plans already made for the opening of a popular amusement park about June 1st.

The deal was made through the A. W. Blanchard agency of Beloit, the sale being concluded on last Wednesday.

CONSIDER INSURANCE. A disastrous fire in our midst this morning shows what the flood of fire can do once it gets started.

Consider—Property values have increased in large ratio in Janesville. Many property owners feel secure in the fact that they have insurance on their property, yet they have not increased the amounts of the insurance carried in proportion to the increased valuation. A sudden fire or disaster would leave them without sufficient protection.

Prudent property owners will take to heart the lesson taught by the fire this morning and secure enough additional insurance to thoroughly cover any loss which may come.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have passed twenty-two summers and I have made a mistake. I read the letter written by "High Platin" Sallie and I wish you would publish my letter for her sake. When I was very young I met a young man whom I thought a great deal of, who also cared for me, but he knew that I kissed all the boys and was very popular of me. He told me that he loved me, but I would not give up the kisses of the other boys. One night we had fun, just because I had kissed another boy, and as he left me that night he said: "I love you, but I want a wife who hasn't kissed every boy who has had a chance to kiss her. I was foolish then, but how many times those words have come back to me! I would that were eighteen again and had the chance to marry the only man in the world for me. He is married now and I am not, although I had the chance to marry him. I have only cared for better things than him!"

Maybe "High Platin" Sallie will take advice from one who has followed a real life drama and acted.

It is a pleasure for me to print your letter. It doesn't influence my life as far as I'm concerned, but I hope other girls to realize the truth about promiscuous kissing.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen. I was forced into a matrimony to a man thirty years old. I only saw him three times. I just hate him and can't bear to be in his company. Should I live with him or go to the boy I love?

It is difficult for me to advise you.

She Married an Average Man

By ZWE BECKLEY.

I have been three long, miserable days at Athens.

"You know, dear girl, you are welcome to stay here as long as you like," she said this morning. "But I can't see you going about looking like a ghost of Little Red Riding Hood, and you're sick with useless worry. You can't work, you can't forget, you can't play. Life's too long and matrimony too long for you. I've called Jim up three times, but you know he won't explain anything to me unless you speak to him things must remain at this wretched deadlock."

"He knows perfectly well," I told her for the tenth time, "that in sheer decency the explanation—the first move—must come from him. His obstinacy is unchangeable, Athens. You know it is."

"Yes—it is. But in married life so many things can be insufferable if we let them. Oh, don't think I'm preaching. And when it comes right down to brass tacks, marriage is exactly like any other job. We've either got to keep it or we've got to keep it. And when it comes to the knots as they come along and smooth them out. If we don't, we might as well chuck it. And when you're ready to chuck it, Ann?"

"Almost sure," I answered slowly. "You know, dear, she persisted, "there's hardly a person with any real capacity for suffering who has not at one time or another been on the verge of suicide. And there's hardly a marriage that in some stage hasn't been at the point of going to pieces. The would-be suicide is afraid, perhaps, of what it means of destruction at hand, so he waits a little. And the crisis passes, he is saved and never again gets down."

THE PURPOSE OF BLOOD TRANSFUSION

One professional doctor in New York has given $50,000 to the blood transfusion into the veins of other persons, for which he has received $1,700, in 60 different transfusions, in a period of six and one-half years. At the beginning he weighed 175 pounds. Six and one-half years later he weighed 202 pounds. He has lost 27 pounds of blood, and his volume of blood about 10 times. His hemoglobin, measured two months after his last donation of blood, was 10 percent, whereas the normal is between 50 and 100 percent. Otherwise he was in good health.

A healthy donor may safely give as much as one-fourth of his total volume of blood in transfusion. An infant may safely receive from three to five ounces of blood from a healthy donor. An adult may receive up to a quart of blood.

Blood transfusion is the ideal treatment for a person who has had hemorrhage. It not only replaces the blood lost in the hemorrhage, but it stops bleeding when perhaps no other expedient will stop it. The transfusion of a few ounces of blood from a healthy parent or near relative into the veins of a newborn infant has saved life in countless cases of uncontrollable bleeding from the navel, mouth, stomach or bowel.

Transfusion is perhaps the best remedy for hemorrhage in hemophilia (bleeders).

For severe anemia a transfusion of normal blood fluids results superior to any other known treatment, although the transfusion is not a specific cure. Small amounts of blood appear to accomplish as much in anemia as do large amounts.

In certain cases of extreme debility from infection, from shock or from grave toxemia or systemic poisoning, transient transfusions will temporarily increase the patient's vitality and possibly tide over a crisis or make an operation feasible.

It is essential to determine that the donor is absolutely free from disease of a communicable nature, also to determine as soon as I can get a passport.

"What will you do there?"

"Oh, go into service. Several girls have gone there, and prefer it ever so much to service here. They have good wages, and every evening a new day off. Of course, they work hard when they are in the house, but they get liberty. Another thing is that they can go back to their homes when they like. They have their own lockkey."

Satin Turban, Feather Trimmed, Is Stunning Mid-winter Mode

The large picture hat may be beautiful and effective as a frame for the face, but there never will be anything more chic and more stylish than the small turban. This season the small draped hat of oriental lines is particularly popular. It appears in various fabrics for morning, street, afternoon and evening wear. Duvelin, velvet, and velvet are the popular fabrics for street wear, but tulle, satin and gold and silver cloth are usually shown for afternoon and evening wear. Embroidery, beads, feathers and fur are the accepted trimmings. And in the daytime a face veil is usually worn. This model is a particularly designed for restaurant wear. It is made of draped satin trimmed with natural colored vulture spreading out on both sides like wings. The simplicity of the hat combined with the chic lines and artist's touch make it an exclusive model which will never be common, but will always be smart and unusual.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

When business and professional women from every part of the country met together to form a national and professional women's club they probably never realized what rare judgment and forethought they were showing in electing Gail Laughlin president. Miss Laughlin should be well able to represent women from all parts of the country and to lead them, for she is of both the east and west.

She was born in Maine and educated in eastern colleges, receiving degrees from Wellesley and Cornell. She wrote for a commercial paper for a year and then was admitted to the bar in New York city. Then she became actively interested in suffrage and joined the National Woman's Suffrage Association. Then Miss Laughlin went west and located in Denver and practiced law there for six years. In 1914 she went to the east and located in San Francisco, where she has been active in suffrage ever since. She knows the women of both sections of the country and her position of lawyer has presented to her many of the problems of both sexes. She has held many political positions in political organizations. Surely no better woman with such a blending of the east and west and such a wealth of experience have been chosen to lead the new national organization, had the business women of the country searched a year for their president.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN 1920

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, national and international suffrage president, just back from a western tour for the ratification of the federal suffrage amendment, announced recently that women of this country will vote in the spring primaries of 1920 and that next April, when the International Suffrage Alliance assembled in Madrid, Spain, after a lapse of seven years, the name of the United States will go upon the record of an enfranchised nation.

Mrs. Catt reported that 23 states have already ratified, several others have called special sessions, and that the suffrage amendment will hold the nation for quick ratification in this year. In six months' time nearly two-thirds of the necessary 36 states have lined up for suffrage.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

An Answer for the Baby.

Your articles are a source of almost daily discussion in our household. For the past week I have noticed while cleaning my baby's skin the skin is slightly red and itchy. I put in olive oil thinking he was had a rash. Is there anything you could suggest to help him? He is a healthy baby and seems to be happy. But he protests against my inserting cotton to clean it.

ANSWER:—The baby displays a little skin rash, acquired, perhaps, from his mother's cerumen or ear wax or is irritated in the ear for a purpose. Do not try to remove it, and never insert anything in the ear canal.

Recipe for Brain Gems.

Kindly send me a recipe for brain gems which you mention as good for people who are constipated. Also tell me how much skim milk one should drink a day to keep the bowels regular. Whether any other food must be omitted during that time. (Mrs. H. K. L.)

ANSWER:—One egg well beaten. Pinch of salt. Butter size of walnut, melted. One cupful sweet milk. One cupful wheat bran. One cupful white flour. Teaspoonful baking powder. Bake in a tin. (A fair amount of skim milk to be taken every three or four hours. No other food should be taken on such a diet. The suggestions are given for a stamped addressed envelope.

Baked Bananas (in skins). Waffles. Coffee. Lunch. Goulash. Baking Powder Biscuits. Cranberry Conserve. M-P-Cocoa. Dinner. Beef Tenderloin. Pan Gravy. Mashed Potatoes. Diced Turnips. Stuffed Tomatoes. Stuffed Cabbage. Gingerbread with Whipped Cream. Tea.

TESTED RECIPES

Coulash:—Brown one cup chopped, left-over meat with a medium sized onion in drippings. Add one cup of tomato sauce, one cup of cooked macaroni. Season and brown in oven. This is a most satisfying and savory dish.

Sandwich (tomato):—Add one cup of strained canned tomato, one teaspoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon sugar. Add one-half cup of evaporated milk, one-half cup of cold water. Chill in refrigerator. Press a layer of round moulds that will make four sandwiches. Spread the tomato mixture on top of each slice. Turned out. Stick into top several small celery-leaves, and put a ring of heavy mayonnaise around it. Light but nutritious.

Cranberry Conserve:—Boil two cups cranberries, two cups water, two cups sugar, rind of one orange—unpeeled. Boil for 10 minutes. Add one cup raisins. Boil 10 minutes, add one-half cup chopped nuts, and bring again to boil.

Escalloped Cabbage and Rice:—Oil a baking dish and fill it with alternate layers of cooked rice, white cabbage and cauliflower. Sprinkle the top with salt and pepper, bread crumbs and bits of butter. Then bake an hour in a moderate oven, keeping the dish covered the first 45 minutes.

Turkish Rice:—One cup boiled rice, two cups tomato sauce, one cup chopped onion, one-half cup chopped almonds. Add the nuts and seasonings to the boiled rice and simmer slowly for one hour.

Spanish Rice:—Two cups boiled rice, one cup chopped ham, two cups tomato sauce, one tablespoon chopped parsley. Press a layer of ham, moisten with tomato sauce and continue until ingredients are used up. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Serve garnished with chopped parsley.

Italian Rice:—One cup rice, one cup ground meat, one-half cup chopped onion, one-half cup chopped tomato, one-half cup chopped parsley. Cook the rice, then drain. Melt butter and chop onion. Add the meat and brown. Add tomatoes, salt and simmer for 30 minutes. Pour over the rice, sprinkle with cheese and serve in a hot oven.

Left-over Rice:—Left-over rice may be deliciously utilized by packing it in baking powder tins and letting it stand long enough to make it puff out of the tin little by little, slicing it as it is slipped out. Fry these slices first on one side and then on the other in a hot oil. They will be a very fat which you prefer.

When Making a Photograph:—In the first place take a cardboard sheet which is larger than your picture. Hang it over the back of the camera. Cut a slot in each corner of the cardboard. Slip the corners of the photograph into the slots and hold all by the addition of one or more pieces of heavy paper. The picture is now held together with rubber bands and is trapped in paper. It is quite impossible for the corners of the picture to be injured by ordinary handling if wrapped in this way.

FOOD IS CURIOSITY WHILE CROWDS STARVE

Philadelphia, (By Mail)—Sidney Rich, formerly United States consul at Chemnitz, Saxony, who lately returned from a five months tour of Austria, Hungary and Germany, says children are starving by thousands in Europe.

What he had seen of the reconstruction and relief work done by Americans made him proud of being an American, Mr. Rich added.

The United States government in its effort to down the "crowd about grocery store windows," said Mr. Rich, where unemployed Americans would place on view as a curiosity. People still obtain rations on "food cards" and get a quart of pound of coffee or coffee once every two weeks.

THE WISHING PLANE

The next day Jack and Jane and their friends climbed into the air-plane again and started from Constantinople for Armenia, which is a part of Turkey in Asia. Captain Brave guided the plane high above the city and then started for Asia. As the machine carried the children out over the Bosphorus Ladydear pointed beneath them and said: "Now, if you look down you can see two continents at once, Europe and Asia. It is much better view than we had when we went down to the harbor."

If the children thought that they were looking very inquisitively at the world taken, for Captain Brave kept the big plane high in the air and, consulting his charts, steered entirely by his instruments, not bothering about the land below at all. When Jack and Jane noticed this, Jack said:

"Where are we going first?"

"To Bilib!"

Now if anyone told you in answer to your question that he was going to Bilib! I'm afraid you wouldn't know even that it was in Armenia unless you had been following Jack and Jane right up to this minute. So you can't blame Jack and Jane for looking very inquisitively at the captain when he said that.

"It's one of the most important cities in Armenia," said Captain Brave, "and we must make it our headquarters for a while."

The plane flew on for hours. Jack and Jane grew tired of looking down. Probably most of the children have never been in an airplane, so I'll tell you that you can't see very much that's going on down below when you are soaring two thousand feet up in the air.

I'm sure you've wondered oftentimes how far the clouds are from the earth when they drift lazily by, looking like big white mountains of cotton wadding or snow. Well, often times they are just about two thousand feet up from the earth's surface—just about as high as Jack and Jane were traveling.

Well, after Jack and Jane tired of watching the voyage of the plane they went down into the little room for the children. Captain Brave and she prepared lunch for them and Captain Brave, making some delicious sandwiches and cooking some chocolate on the little stove. She and the children ate their lunch and then Ladydear steered the plane while Captain Brave ate.

After lunch Ladydear told the children how the Armenians had suffered for centuries and centuries.

"You must know that the Armenians were the first people to become Christians as a nation and defied all attempts by the Turks and other peoples to make them change their beliefs."

Ashland.—The once despised popular is now being saved into lengths of lumber for building, and is being sent to the paper mills of Wisconsin. It is characteristic of cut-over lands to become quickly covered with poplar, a tree which attains a considerable height in three or four years, although if left to itself, the slow growing pine would in the course of a few years create new forests. In the interval between logging a land and its conversion into a farm five or ten years later, the land invariably becomes covered with second growth timber. It has been used to a limited extent for fence rails and fuel, but the high price of paper and the demand for wood pulp has stimulated the cutting of poplar for manufacture of paper.

Shop in the Gazette before you shop in the stores.

Stevens Point.—Few holiday dinners in Stevens Point were graced with turkeys this year. Geese and chickens were the popular substitutes. The price made turkeys prohibitive. Fifty-fifty cents per pound was charged, an advance of ten cents over Thanksgiving turkeys.

Darlington.—The Lafayette county historical society is making a collection of all service flags displayed by churches and other organizations through the county in honor of the boys who saw service in the late war.
